KeyMacro displays a pop-up for quick insertion of "Personal Macro"-only text such as phone number, fax number or e-mail address, and "General Macros"-such as today's date or day of the week. The "Personal Macro" can be used to insert only a selected phone number, fax number or e-mail address. For example, you can use Personal Macro to quickly insert a selected phone number into the "To" field of a letter you are writing or into the address in an e-mail message. Or you can use Personal Macro to insert only a phone number or fax number into the message body of a fax or e-mail message. "General Macros" can be used to insert any date, day of the week or any text into a letter or e-mail message. For example, you can use Personal Macro to insert a date into the body of a letter you are writing. Using "Personal Macros" and "General Macros" is easy. Start typing the macro text. Press and hold the mouse button while typing the macro text. Press the Alt key to insert. A pop-up window will display the previously typed text. Type the desired text. Press the enter key to finish. Set the "Personal Macros" and "General Macros" for quick insertion. For example, you can set a "Personal Macro" for the phone number of an individual or "General Macro" for the phone number of an individual or fax number of an individual or "Personal Macro" for the phone number of a group or "General Macro" for the phone number of a group. KeyMacro allows you to choose the formatting style of the display style. "Text" is the default display style. "Number" is a numeric display style. "Date" is a date display style. "Verbose" is an expanded display style. "Text" is a compact display style. KeyMacro enables you to type text at a very fast rate. With the "Scroll" feature, you can continuously type new text. For example, to keep typing letters of the alphabet in the "To" field of a letter you are writing, with KeyMacro you can type the letters and press the enter key. Then press and hold the mouse button. Scroll through the letters of the alphabet, press the "home" key, type the "to" key and release the mouse button. Press the "end" key and release the mouse button.
