Resides in the system tray Comes with multiple brightness levels Easily regain your default brightness level Handy eye protection app If you spend long hours in front of your PC and you do it regularly, you've noticed by now that in a very dark environment, a bright light may hurt your eyes by causing severe soreness. An excellent way to avoid that problem is to use a brightness adjusting program. Dimmer Pro is a simple app that can help you with that. Resides in the system tray Dimmer Pro has no interactive GUI; it can only be accessed from the system tray or the default key bidding "Alt + Shift + G." Comes with multiple brightness levels The application is practically and brightness adjuster. The levels are starting from "30(Light)" up to "255(Dark)." The first level is barely visible, and it gets darker with every level until 255 is reached. 255 is practically totally dark, and it gives the impression that the PC is turned off if you deselect the active tab. The hotkey has the same illumination, so if you switch to the full dark mode and you cannot find the way to your system tray or an opened window, you simply hit the hotkey and lower the brightness level. Easily regain your default brightness level. To regain your ordinary monitor light, you can close the app from the system tray, but in order to undo the brightness level, you have to close a "White bulb" icon as well. As a better alternative, you can use the "Undim" option, which will instantly re-adjust your lights. Handy eye protection app In conclusion, Dimmer Pro is a practical and easy-to-use program that quickly adjusts your monitor brightness level to keep you away from the eye damage and soreness. We recommend it to all users as it's fairly intuitive and it doesn't require any tweaking before use. ## Dimmer Pro [Latest 2022]

In a dark room, your eyes can quickly become sore and, in extreme cases, your eyesight can be impaired or even damaged. Using a dimmer app can help, but currently, there is no such an app that will automatically re-adjust the brightness level and protect your eyesight. That's why we have designed Dimmer Pro. It has several useful features that will allow you to set a custom brightness level and protect your eyes in a simple way. Details Dimmer Pro is a very handy program for all users. It can automatically increase or decrease the brightness of the monitor so that the current light level is in line with your current setting. Dimmer Pro will then switch between the levels as you require and will allow you to protect your eyes from eye damage. The program can be accessed from the system tray or the default key binding "Alt + Shift + G." It will automatically adjust the screen brightness according to the current level. The levels are indicated in decibels and the Brightness can be adjusted from 30 down to zero. The first level is barely visible and the darkest level is 0, which in practice results in turning off the monitor. The application is extremely easy to use as you just have to make the desired brightness level. There are four brightness settings, 30 (minimum), 60, 90, and 110 (maximum). The default settings can be changed at any time to the desired level. Sponsored Links

Outside, the clouds blazed a sinister red. But inside the room at the ELW Hotel, Adam Parr couldn't have been more comfortable. He was sitting in his favourite armchair — a tubular steel fixture from the 1950s with a floral cover — with his legs tucked under him and his laptop propped on his knees. He was working on a short animation. "We've all been working on this since early March. It's supposed to be the final thing for this year," he said. The project is

This app is simple and it comes with multiple brightness levels. Include in the main app a additional "Undim" button which instantly re-adjusts the brightness level to the default. Include a "Pending" option to dim the screen after the last brightness level is reached, thus the screen will not be automatically dimmed. Don't forget that the additional "Undim" button will dim the screen instantly, and not dim until the current brightness level is reached. You will be fine as it doesn't have any impact on the PC performance. A "White bulb" icon that when you click on it, will dim the brightness level. Click on it again, and it will return to its previous state. These are the main changes in the new version.
