I have found a new home in Music City with my husband and two kids. I am thankful for our lives and the experiences we've had in our short time here together. Monday, September 21, 2008 THE GIRLS GOT COTTON... A week and a half ago, we decided to take the girls to the Memphis Cotton Fair. It was a rainy day, but we made the best of it and packed a picnic. I made a dozen of this recipe from Savannah Staple's "Vegetarian in the City" I made a couple of years ago. It is delicious, easy and fun! There is no meat or eggs, but instead relies on whole wheat flour and cornmeal. I hope you like it, too! SERVES 12Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Blend first four ingredients in a food processor or blender. Sprinkle cornmeal over lightly oiled cookie sheet and use a 2-cup measure to pour 1/2 cup batter over each cookie. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes about 12 small balls of cornbread. Keeps in an airtight container for a week or more. This is so cute, I would like to make them for Thanksgiving. I love the name too, like Cotton Candy. I do not think I would be very good at making them because I can never get the cornmeal to be thick enough. No comments: Post a Comment FIVE HUNDRED FIFTY I have lived in Nashville for about two years now. I am so glad that I left the cold NYC and made the move to my dream city. I am a wife and mother who loves to spend her time with her family. I love cooking and baking, decorating and crafting. I also love to read and I enjoy sewing and blogging about my life and ideas. My day
