Biography Ary (pronounced "Ara") Varte was born in the city of Hakkari in southern Turkey. He comes from the Berzan family. This family was a part of the Armenian diaspora in the region and founded the Varte Arts Foundation for music education. He grew up in Germany, where his first album was born. He received a music education in a West German music school, in Austria, and later in the United States. He discovered his poetry and musical talent from his mother who was a singer and poet. His father was a lawyer. Varte sings in Turkish, English, German, Greek and Armenian languages. His music style combines folk music, pop, rock and electronic. On February 15, 2007, while he was singing in the Black Sea with a line-up of Turkish musicians, he was beaten by Turkish security forces and was rushed to hospital. He eventually recovered from the attack. On April 29, 2007 he gave the performance at the 2007 European Parliament in Brussels in tribute to the Gezi Park Protests against Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan. In the same year, Varte attended the Duran III music festival in Manisa, Turkey. In 2008, he was the cover art artist for the album Irgendwo auf der Welt by the German group as well as the cover art artist for the album Toque Vivant by the French/Mexican group Le Grand-Pilier.
