collaborator, Canadian musician Darren Kloet. The pair have been writing and performing together since 2012. The album was released on 3 October 2017 via Proper Records/Universal Music UK. Lyrically, Greedy Crush Is a Lie explores McLeod's breakup with her ex-boyfriend. "Summer Woman", a song written by McLeod and Kloet, received attention for its resemblance to a newly released single from Australian singer-songwriter Tame Impala. Its lead single and title track, "Greedy Crush Is a Lie", received particular critical praise. Following the album's release, Greedy Crush Is a Lie charted at number seven on the UK Albums Chart, becoming McLeod's highest-peaking album to date.

Background and recording Following the release of her sixth studio album Modern Nature in 2014, McLeod toured with her then-boyfriend Darren Kloet in Europe for much of that year. The pair had begun writing music together in 2013 and mutually decided to pursue a collaborative project in 2016. McLeod explained the use of the double meaning title for the album in an interview with Esquire: "It's one thing to be the story of me breaking up with someone, but I'm also the story of finding out that I'm not supposed to be that person. I'm also looking at the last period of my life when I thought my life was no good, and seeing that I wasn't in the right place, and now I'm OK. It's hopefully all those things". McLeod and Kloet both work as solo artists and as a duo regularly. McLeod explained in an interview with The Herald that they both take turns writing lyrics and collaborating as a songwriting and production team. "I do the melodies that drive the words," she explained. "He comes up with the words that are so true to how I feel at the moment". McLeod explained that her songwriting consists of "fantasies and dreams" and that "We do little sketches and we have a vision, and then we end up writing 80 percent of our music while we're driving or in the studio". McLeod explained that Greedy Crush Is a Lie was most likely recorded over the course of five weeks in New York City and
