What are the nitty-gritty details of using Wowza Media Server 4.5.1?[Problems in the treatment of diabetic polyneuropathies and their medical-economic importance]. Diabetic polyneuropathy is a common complication of diabetes mellitus. Its extent and severity depend on the duration of diabetes and degree of metabolic control. The corresponding signs are disturbances of sensibility, motoric problems and vegetative (autonomic) disturbances. In our clinic between 22% and 30% of the adult diabetes patients have polyneuropathy which is mainly due to long-lasting diabetes. However, over long periods of diabetes the incidence of polyneuropathy is much lower than might be expected from the experimental results. The slow progression of the polyneuropathy and the different signs and causes of neuropathy lead to massive uncertainty concerning the end point of the so-called "diabetes neuropathy". Therefore, it is difficult to calculate treatment effects, to compare these data with other published studies and to calculate the cost-benefit of treatment. Although certain drugs and symptomatic therapy with vitamin E, melatonin, calcium, L-carnitine and heparin appear to be helpful in the treatment of polyneuropathy, they do not lead to improvement of the disease. Only a very few pharmacologic agents have been demonstrated to improve the neuropathy. These drugs include the following: 1. the monoselective alpha 2-blockers: clonidine, guanabenz, rilmenidine, celiprol, prazosin, yohimbine 2. the non-selective alpha 2-blocker: mianserin 3. the insulin sensitizers: thiazolidinones, rosiglitazone. The most interesting results are obtained with the thiazolidinones; however, the improvement cannot be maintained over a longer period. The most promising treatment at present is probably the use

United States District Court, E. D. Michigan, S. D. March 28, 1978. *32 *33 Roy C. Hayes, Detroit, Mich., for bankrupt. Daniel L. Foster, Detroit, Mich., for trustee. MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER JAMES HARVEY, District Judge. In this matter the Court is concerned with the propriety of the conduct of counsel for the trustee and he has filed a motion to be allowed a reasonable attorney's fee. This matter was previously before the Court and was argued on January 24, 1978. The Court has reviewed the file in this matter and is fully advised in the premises. The trustee in bankruptcy has petitioned the Court to disallow the claim of attorney Donald C. Robinson. The bankrupt and the trustee previously filed a complaint to recover a turnover order which was granted. Following trial on this complaint, the Court entered its opinion on September 30, 1977. In this opinion the Court ruled that attorney Donald C. Robinson was not entitled to any fees and charged the bankrupt and his counsel with having engaged in vexatious conduct. At that time the Court entered a judgment which established the hours, hourly rate and was entered as an order to the parties, with court costs being assessed against the bankrupt's counsel, Mr. Robinson. Mr. Robinson was placed under a court ordered injunction on January 27, 1978, which restrained him from harassing the debtor in this matter. On January 31, 1978, Mr. Robinson petitioned the Court for a contempt citation for violation of this Court's order. It was subsequently revealed that
